

Intercultural Collaborative Learning-Channels

ICL-Channels

Learn Across Diverse Cultures

ICL-Channels is a program offering intercultural collaborative learning (ICL) courses in cooperation with five universities.

Earn credit for taking ICL courses at participating universities!

Study with international and Japanese students from universities across the world!

What is Intercultural Collaborative Learning (ICL)?

ICL aims to foster mutual understanding among students from different linguistic and cultural backgrounds through “meaningful interaction” in the form of collaborative learning experiences such as groupwork and projects.

Now Accepting Applications for ICL Courses

ICL courses in up to 6 disciplinary areas will be offered online in English and Japanese for the 2024-2025 academic year.

SDGs | Multicultural Awareness | Business Partnership/Leadership | Natural Disaster/Recovery | Japanese Culture/ Society | Collaboration with Community

Some subjects may not be eligible for credit exchange. Please ask the relevant staff at your university about credit exchange eligibility for the subjects you plan to take.

Visit our website for application information ▶
intercul.ihe.tohoku.ac.jp/icl/

Participating Universities

